The roupe is composed of eighteen members, who excel in delineating the negro character and he rendition of the programme incident to adjustices.

Yesterday afternoon there was anther large crowd at Cole's circus, hippothome and menagerie. The performance was of the most interesting nature, and gaveg n of the most interesting nature, and gaveg neera satisfaction. Among the visitors were a large number of orphans, who, with their teachers and officers to the asylume, attended by invitation of Mr. Cole. The children, like he old folks, were very much interested in the menageric and delighted with the circus. Cole gives a good exhibition and will always attract the nucles for he thorouguly knows attract the public, for he thoroughly knows what they wish, and what will best entertain what they wish, and what will best enteriain them. The hippodry me is the greatest feature of his show, and is a guarantee of the interest the public will feel for the success of the proprietor in his laudable efforts to afford an entertaining at do novel exhibition. The races are spirited and exciting the horse being arged at full speed and driven in a skillful manner. We have never seen as much et thuslem at any circus as that induiged by the people who witnessed Cole's hippodrome while in this city. The hippodrome under a canvass is a new and exciting leature to the people of the outh, and would draw well were there no circus and mensgerie connected with it. Mr. Cole goes hence to Mian and up to Kentucky, but we hope he will revisit Memphis during the present season. Another visit here would attract twice as many spectionwers it possible for this number to find no minder the tent which is the revent of any were it possible for this number to find room under the tent, which is the largest of any show that ever traveled lu the south.

The attendance last hight was larger than in the afternoon, and the performance throughout equally as meritorious as the previous one. Mr. Frank Gardiner, the English jockey, give an unusually good exitorion of kini and grace, while Mr. J. C. Campbell, the vanter, who turns a done somersuit over eightee thorses, added a great deal to this part of the evening's entertainment, which closed with the thrilling four-horse charlot-race. In parting with this circu company, we can truthfully say that it is managed not only with consummate skill and show to at ever traveled in the south

The Convention, which Met Yesterday, Adjourned to Await the Coming of the Great Moral Reformer, Beautiful B. L.

About fifteen delegates of the Shelby county Republican convention assembled at Zion hall yesterday afternoon.

J. A. Thompson, colored, chairman, called the convention to order, and announced that there was not a majority of the convention to order, and announced that there was not a majority of delegates present, but a nough, he though, to transact business. The senetary being absent, Mr R. H. M. Cain, colored, was elected secretary protein. Mr, T. D. Eferidge, white, said he would address the convention first for several reasons. He was an old and staunch Republican, had the interests of the party at heart, had to leave the city in a short time and wanted to be bond. ere was not a majority of delegates present, leave the city in a short time and wanted to be head. On account of the dissatisfaction in the party, he hought it best to adjourn for one week. Judge Barbour L-wis had not yet returned to the city, and as he was the ac-knowledged leader of the party, he thought it proper to wait until his arrival before transacting any business. He spake at considerable ingth about the dis-affection in the ranks of the great and good R publican party. But while there were bekerings and disatis, action, nothing had happened to reriously damage the party.

The chairman informed Mr. Blackburn that Mr. Eldridge had made no such intimation, which seemed to be satisfactory.

Mr. B ackburn, however, said that he knew Judge Lewis would run the race through.

Mr. Jim Trowbridge, colored, said he knew Judge Lewis could not carry the strength of the Knew Judge. Judge Lewis could not carry the strength of the Republican party.

Here a colored delegate suggested with oaths, that Trowbridge had better go out.

Trowbridge said he "expected" every man, and would be "expected."

It was evidently not expected that acybody should oppose Lewis in that convention.

The charman told Mr. Trowbridge that there was a motion before the house, and he must confine his remarks to the surject.

Mr. Trowbridge endeavored to follow the suggestions of the chalman, and at the same time deat Judge Lewis some neavy blows, out W. W. Cole's Circus, Hippodrome and Menagerie. me deal Judge Lewis some neavy blows, but air, T. F. Castells said that as there was not the chairman informed Mr. Cassells that Jefferson said any number of delegates could adjourn a convention, and that was what they were trying to do.

Mr. Cassells said that he knew a little about

Jefferson, and that he said no such thing. Several of the delegates interrupted Mr. Caseells, and intimated that he was a botter, Cassells, and intimated that he was a corter, sorchead, etc.

The chairman then took occasion to make a few remarks in favor of Judge Ba bour Lewis. He said he was entitled to the leader-sulp of the party. That for many long years ne had battled and worked for the Republication of the head of the results and moral. cans. That he was the intellectual and moral peer of anybody, and merited honors at the hands of the party. That ninefeen-twentieths of the Republicans in the district wanted him as their standard-bearer in the present campaign.
The motion to adjourn until next Tuesday at noon was finally put and carried.

THE TWO RED NINES.

The fincinnati Club is Whitewa hed, and the Memphis Boys Score Seven Kuns-A Good Game.

At the end of the ninth inning in A: the end of the hinth linning in yesterday's game, the Cincinnati lads found aline whitewashes starding to their credit, with seven ruos against them. The fartnest best they reached was third. The playing on both sides was better than the previous day, but three errors having been made by he catch to left field was the most praisewo toy catch in left field was the most praisewo thy play made in the game. Kennedy knocket him a hot liner, which he captured beautifully with one hand while on a run. The fielding of the Memphis boys was very good Their infielders topped everything the trame within reaching distance. The outfield rs' work was done in good style, Maher having made a very difficult catch on a hard run. It was amusing that the proprietors, Austin W. Williams. A B. Brinkley and G.W. Tom on. Good music was furnished by Professor J. Harris's string band, and the terpsichorean festivities continued until long after midul, by, all of the visitors. difficult catch on a hard run. It was amusing o see the Cincinnatis move about in the field to see the Circinnatis move about in the field when Walker went to the bat. In fact, some of the spectators thought that the center and right fielders were going to perch upon the front fence, like two watchful birss, ready to prunce down at their prey on either side. Walker's heavy hits of the day previous was the cause of all this. He managed yester ay to make a three base strike, and bring in one ran. Meeting of the National Grand Lodge of Colored Odd-Fellows at Assembly Hall-A Representative Gathering.

Encouraging Statistics of the Growth and Present Condition of the Order - Business Transacted Yesterday.

The thirty-first annual meeting of the National grand lodge of the United Order of Oda-Fellows (colored) is in session at A. sem-bly hall, in this city. The meeting was called to order at half-past ten o'clock yesterday where women have hispayed as the and noble courage as human nature can be actuated to bring forth. A here is to be admired; a heroine is both to be admired and loved, whose name will live in song and story, in memory and in the souls of a grateful people who have witnessed her actions and know of her sarrifices. A heroine of the true order is working in Brun-wick night and day. We know of her works that they ha e sprung fuil-fleeged from her great and noble sou, and have gone forth as itessings showered down and a mishty panacea. We refer to Mrs. Crovatt, wife of Captain William Crovatt, of the B. and A. radroad. She remains at her post in the yellow-fever stricken city of Brunswick, and mini ters to the sick and dying by hight and day, never stopping but for a few hours sleep when night has made far advances toward another day. She remarked when the lever was first epidemic that she would remain duty-bound by the suffereis, and what has remained and is still remaining. b. ckerings and distatisaction, nothing had happened to reriously damage the party. There had been no dissensions or splits, which was the reverse in the Democratic party in many phaces. Said he had read in the Arricanche of splits in the Democratic party in Arka assandel ewhere, and that nothing of the kind had disturbed ir weakened the ranks of the Republicans. He therefore moved an adjournment until next Tu sday.

This brought Mr J. W. Blackourr, white, to his feet, who said that if it was the expectation of M. Eldridge that by weiting there was a probability of Judge Lewis retiring from the ticket he would tel him that they might as well proceed with the business of the convention. The chairman informed Mr. Blackburn that representative in its character, there being a large attendance of the leading members of the order. Among the prominent members here are Grand Master Redm nd Fanset, of Philadelphia; Grand Senetary D P. Bowser, of Philadelphia; Grand Treasurer Andrew J. Mercer, of Philadelphia; Grand Treasurer Andrew J. Mercer, of Philadelphia; Past Grand Master Wm. A. Freeman, of Washington; Most Venerable Patriarchs E. C. Johnson and Simon Lewis, of New York, and others.
